It is really important that the information you provide, to the best of your knowledge, is accurate. The reason we mention this is to make sure information presented to insurers is sufficient and correct, as if not, in the event of a claim there may be issues with the claim's payments, for example, only a proportion amount of the claim being made. This could also lead to additional terms being applied or the policy being declared void. By ticking this box you confirm that you understand and agree that the information provided is accurate.
